Pros	Cons
City of Brevard "fire district" will be eligible for funding from county	County will decide funding levels.
City tax rate can decrease by 3-10 cents, depending on how much city wishes to supplement base service level.[1]	Brevard residents' will be subject to countywide fire tax.[2]
Proceeds from fire tax could be used countywide. Individuals dept's funding levels could be based on actual need and not limited by district lines.	Funding levels, and thus base service levels, set by the County Commissioners. Unknown at this time what criteria they'd use to establish funding levels.[3]
Provides operational flexibility	May change who responds to calls within city limits.

[1] FY26 projection sees between $.048-$.063 of the projected revenue neutral rate going to fire depending on service levels.

[2] Countywide fire tax rate unknown at this time

[3] Historically TC's approach has been to fund each dept. in a way that maintains comparable service levels across districts. Under current funding model BFD service levels exceed those of other depts.
