I am a 2014 graduate from the School of the Museum of Fine Arts and Tufts University MFA program. I am an interdisciplinary artist and my work is autobiographical in nature, holding a twinge of longing for my southern roots. Much of my work is concerned with the exploration of queer identity with a focus on memory, domesticity, and historical traditions of southern Americana. Through this lens, I examines the relationships I have established with people and site-specific locations. I approach my creative practice as an opportunity to more deeply research and explore these interests. I have exhibited and performed throughout the US and Europe, most notably at the Piano Craft Gallery (Boston, MA), Panoply Performance Laboratory (Brooklyn, NY), Mobius (Cambridge, MA), Pacific Northwest College of Art (Portland, OR), and the Tempting Failure Festival (London, England). I have been lucky to be a recipient of grants through the Mayor's Office of Arts and Culture & the Boston Arts Commission, the New Center for Arts and Culture and Combined Jewish Philanthropies, the North Carolina Arts Council, and a Post Graduate Teaching Fellowship award from the SMFA. I am currently based in Asheville, NC, where I work as the Director of Admissions for Warren Wilson College and the new MA program in Critical Craft Studies.

I am excited by the opportunity to serve on the Public Art & Cultural Commission. I believe it's a chance to further connect with the Arts & Culture community and become an advocate for our community in the City of Asheville. As an artist myself, I think I bring my education and experience to this role, and I'm interested in continuing to strengthen the voices of creatives when it comes to their contribution to the economic development of Asheville and our surrounding communities.

Hello Board,
While I do not have a stellar resume to provide ... my background is a BSN, working for Hewlett-Packard in a Environmental Health and Safety management position, I have always supported the arts
My sister was a photographer and artist and I served as her agent when she decided to sell her work volunteered at community art centers and private galleries in Georgia for several years.

I would very much like to assist our community in these endeavors with energy and enthusiasm!

So now you know my story..

Best regard,
Chrissy O'Donnell

I am a lifelong lover of art and a collector of local artists' works, wherever I have lived. Indeed, I often joke that I am the only friend I have who is not an artist.

I care deeply and strongly about the City, and I care about the image we present to our residents first. Public art has the power to inspire young people who are given the opportunities to see it regularly in their city, in their own neighborhoods, on and inside public buildings.

Adults often proclaim on social media how they continue to see with new eyes the art we show them here.

I support the continued work of brilliant artists such as Ian Wilkinson, whose murals give us smiles, hope and courage.

I support our Museum and its effort to bring us closer to art; the sculpture newly-installed out front is a reminder to us that Asheville has always been a cultural and artistic mecca. I want that to continue.

Sarah Terwilliger
Deputy City Clerk
City of Asheville
70 Court Plaza
Asheville, NC 28801

Dear Sarah Terwilliger:

I am writing to be considered for a committee member of the Public Art and Cultural Commission for the City of Asheville. Over the past ten years, my career focus has been to develop expertise in services to vulnerable communities, notably by providing food that is nutritious, accessible, and affordable. Engaging so thoroughly with the community has informed a firm commitment and understanding of local cultural and promotion.

Since 2010, I have been involved in community organizing, program management, and regulation of programming for vulnerable groups. Over that time, I developed skills in group leadership, client service, and financial management. My career progression has afforded me opportunities to contribute to strategic planning beyond just my work unit, to include issue that span across the organization and local community. Through that collaboration, I identified and sought out solutions to better serve stakeholders: clients, volunteers, partners, employees, and funders. Further, I have been responsible for soliciting and reporting on government revenue to ensure needed resources are appropriately provided and utilized.

The Public Art and Cultural Commission excites me because it complements my personal and professional interests and experiences. I am avid appreciator and promoter of the arts and local culture. I have always had a firm belief that in order to form a productive civic community that it has to be grounded and promotive of the local cultural. In Asheville, it is the bastion of the sense of community, place, and economy. As a child, I regularly visited Asheville. My aunt and grandparents lived here and I would travel from Oak Ridge, TN. I was fascinated with a place that was so grounded in an identify connected to the arts and crafts. As an adult, I am impressed by these decisions and actions that have maintained this sense of identity. I have traveled the world, and the United States, and few places have the sense of identity that Asheville, North Carolina has. I want to be involved with this commission because it contributes to an identify and the economy that makes this city thrive.

To complement my practical experience, I recently earned a Master of Public Administration, which provides new breadth to my work experience. I believe that my background, skillset, and disposition will prove an asset to the Public Art and Cultural Commission. I hope to continue this conversation in the future.

Sincerely,

Michael G. Waddle

Through two decades of work at Diana Wortham Theatre, now Wortham Center for the Performing Arts, I've served the Western North Carolina community through the arts. During this time, Asheville has experienced significant change and periods of recession, growth and conflict. I am deeply invested, both professionally and personally, in the health of the Asheville and of the arts. I look forward to expanding my level of service to our wonderful city and to helping it recover and thrive.

The attached resume details further experience in the arts and our community.
Thank you.

I have a strong administration and financial/tax background which have taught me a lot in working with a wide range of individuals and businesses while following rules/regulations, documenting actions, and meeting deadlines.

I enjoy art and the public spaces in Asheville that have been filled with beautiful murals and spaces make Asheville a city among few - those that embrace the skills and outward expression of their community and actually make space for them. I want to be a part of a team working to make Asheville even more beautiful while allowing individual expression.

I bring over 30 years of experience as a communicator to this role. While I'm educated as a journalist with both a bachelor of science and master of arts degree, much of my work as a copywriter is done in collaboration with other creatives such as graphic artists, visual artists, illustrators, web designers and infographic creators. I'm also the author of a book about the creative process of artists entitled Design Secrets: Layout (Rockport). I've volunteered on the executive board of an arts related non-profit for the past four years. I'm interested in serving the public art and cultural commission because I believe the arts play a critical role in the community and Asheville has a great deal of promise in featuring and supporting local artists.

Since obtaining my BA degree I have taken Graduate Level courses in Creative Writing, Education and Visual Arts. I have also taken studio art courses through various community colleges and museum outreach programs. In the past I have had both photographs and multimedia pieces exhibited in group shows. Previous to moving here I spent 30 years in New Mexico, a wonderful and rich artistic milieu of three distinct cultural groups. I have lived in Asheville now for seven years though my roots are deeper as my Mother was raised in the Appalachians of Southern Tennessee. I am currently a member of the Asheville Art Museum and a supporter of the Black Mountain College Museum. I am also a long time art collector, primarily in Indigenous and Southern Folk Art but have collected in other styles as well. I recently helped decorate a new local Airbnb by lending some work in my collection. If chosen, I feel I can bring a unique and diverse perspective to Asheville's Public Art and Cultural Commission.

As a Lebanese, Turkish, American, I am very fortunate to have been exposed to many cultural backgrounds since I was born. Living in Asheville for the overwhelming majority of my life (27 yrs) has only amplified my draw to cultural diversity. Asheville is a city that has always been open to all and I believe that the promotion of public art displays is a way to visually make that openness a more permanent and prominent part of this city.

Art exposure is an important part of my everyday life. Whether it is listening to a new song or researching a painting that I happened to come across, art is an avenue for continuous diversity even when narrowmindedness of others seems to get in the way. I aim to provide this to visitors of our city and Ashevillians alike. Through my contacts, my interests in the arts, my professionalism, and my diverse background, I believe that I would be a valuable asset and shining representative of the City of Asheville as a member of the city board of Public Art + Cultural Commission.

Thank you for your time.

I graduated from UNCA as a fine art major.
I was the Art Director for Mother Earth News magazine for 10 years
I was a founding partner and Creative Director for two successful Asheville advertising agencies.
I served for two terms as Chair of the WCQS Public Radio Board of Directors.
I was the Chair for the Board for URTV, Asheville's public access television station.
I have done design, branding and marketing work for Asheville Symphony, Asheville Community Theatre, Diana Wortham Theatre, and other local arts organizations

I believe that public art is crucially important to a city's identity, vitality, and general civic health. No city can truly consider itself great without a robust, enthusiastic commitment to public art.

I have a Bachelor of Fine Arts Honours and I have a deep appreciation for all forms of art. I believe art is necessary to society to give voice to the voiceless. Art can often predicts the future in a mystical way for example Blade runner had technology in that movie that we now have today.
I would love to serve the community and support Art in all its forms.

I currently work in a support position and would love to put my art degree to good use.

ROBERT MILNES

I am an active artist who has lived in Asheville since 2014, operating a studio on Meadownview Road in North Asheville. My work, in ceramic sculpture, is represented in Asheville by the Bender Gallery. My wife Karen and I moved to Asheville when I retired as Emeritus Dean of the College of Visual Arts and Design at the University of North Texas, a position I held for eight and a half years. While there, I helped establish the Institute for the Arts, a program which brought visiting artists to the campus for one year residencies. We were fortunate to bring artists Kiki Smith and Nick Cave to work with studerts in the visual and performing arts there and I served on the Board of Directors of the Business Council for the Arts in Dallas, TX. I also chaired the Public Art program on UNT's campus, a role I also performed at San Jose State University where I had been Director of the School of Art and Design at San Jose State University for over fifteen years. At San Jose State, I am proud to have chaired the project that brought the sculpture "Stand" by the artist Rigo 23 that commemorated the stand taken by San Jose State alumni Tommie Smith and John Carlos at the Mexico City Olympics in 1968 to the campus. We were also able to work with North Carolina artist Mel Chin on a $2.2 million project for the joint San Jose State University/ City of San Jose Public Library on campus, and I served as a consultant to the City's Public Art Program, at that time the largest in the country in terms of funded projects. Here in Asheville, I have served on the Board of Directors of the Center for Craft and as Co-Chair of the Community Forum and Strategic Planning Committee for Blue Ridge Public Radio. I am committed to the deliberative and inclusive process that makes public art both meaningful and possible and would enjoy the opportunity to help the City and people of Asheville bring additional works to fruition. I am attaching a short biography. My website, with further information, is robertmilnes.com.

His artworks are included in the collections of the Renwick Gallery (Smithsonian Institution), Seattle Arts Commission, Arizona State University Ceramic Research Center, San Jose Museum of Art, Louisiana State University Museum, Erie Art Museum, Edinboro University of PA, San Jose State University, and private collections nationally.

Milnes served as Dean of the College of Visuals Arts and Design at the University of North Texas from January 2006 to his retirement in August 2014, when he moved to Asheville, NC with his wife Karen, re-establishing Arbitrary Forms Studio there. A sculptor and ceramist, he served previously as Director of the School of Art and Design at San Jose State University in California, Director of the School of Art at Louisiana State University, and as Chair of the Art Department at Edinboro University of Pennsylvania. He taught at the Penland School of Crafts in 1972 and 1979.

Milnes is the past president of the National Council of Art Administrators and the National Association of Schools of Art and Design. He has served as a consultant or evaluator for more than sixty universities, colleges, and independent schools of art in the US and abroad. He has received the Bautzer Award for University Development from the California State University System and served in San Jose as President of the Silicon Valley Arts Council and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Montalvo Center for the Arts. He served in Dallas on the Board of Directors of the Business Council for the Arts and as Chair of the Community Advisory Board for KERA, the NPR station for North Texas and received the International Interior Design Association Award for Design Leadership. He was named a Fellow and Lifetime Member of NASAD and in Asheville, NC has served on the Board of Directors of the Center for Craft and as co-chair of the Blue Ridge Public Radio Community Forum and Strategic Planning Committee.

His sculptures are represented by the Bender Gallery in Asheville, NC and the PDNB Gallery in Dallas. His work was featured in a virtual solo show at PDNB Gallery along with selective virtual national shows including the Philadelphia Museum of Art Craft Show and the American Museum of Ceramic Arts Virtual Clay National in fall, 2020.

As a professional creative in the area, I am passionate about art and its ability to impact a community. This passion led me to serve the LEAF Community Arts organization for 12 years as a photographer and Board member, including serving as Board Vice President and President. This same passion led me to organize and become the founding president of a chapter of the AIGA, a 107-year-old national professional design association. The Asheville chapter is the 75th of the organization.

Art has the ability to inspire and spur people to action as well as foster a deeper connection to the community that stewards the art. I have commited my life to art and community, so serving on this Board seems like a natural fit. My Board experience has been filled with engagement and dedication. I am not a believer in camping out on a Board for street cred of resume filler. I would love to serve with this Board and add to its abilities.

Interesting fact: the photo used on the The City of Asheville Public Art & Cultural Commission 2020 Annual Report is an aerial I took on assignment to document the creation of the Black Lives Matter mural in Pack Square.

@ashevilleartists

Hello!

I was very interested to learn more about the opening on the Public Art and Cultural Commission and would like to apply.

While currently I am a web design professional, specializing in Websites and Marketing for Artists, I have been active in the Asheville Arts Community since I came here in 2006.

I ran True Blue Art Supply (a small, independent art supply store downtown) from 2006-2014 and learned a lot in that time about the Artists in our amazing community. I also served as a Board Member on the Public Art and Cultural Commission Advocacy Subcommittee in 2014-15 and worked for the River Arts District Artists as Coordinator that same year.

My strong skill set with organization, marketing, and arts promotion and advocacy make me a valuable team member. I also possess strong interpersonal and social communication skills and can readily interact with the community, other Board members, and the media alike.

I would love to discuss my suitability for the position in more detail. Please contact me on 828 782-3052 or at changerycommunications@gmail.com if you would like to take my application forward.

Thank you for your consideration. I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

Claire Changery

Hello Commission Members

-Areas of Expertise-

The areas of expertise I can leverage on behalf of the Public Art and Cultural Commission are numerous and diverse. To start, my years of experience discovering and working with musicians as the Creative Director of an independent music label with member artists from around the world has allowed me to organize and develop aesthetic themes for releases, create material to support marketing and branding, and manage different personalities and priorities. Related to this work is my experience as a graphic designer who has provided unique artistic and design directions for projects that have been viewed by millions of people. Being a freelance graphic designer has given me experience in contract negotiation, requirement gathering, working on a deadline, and presenting design rationales to stakeholders. Finally, I have been a professional jeweler for several stores around Asheville for the past six years. The experience of making valuable, meaningful and beautiful objects for people around Asheville has been a privilege and given me a high degree of technical expertise, as well as experience translating rough ideas into practical solutions. Taken together, I have experience with numerous sides of art production and distribution and believe my tenacity and advocacy for art and artists would serve the Commission and Asheville very well.

-Education-

I have a Bachelor's Degree from Ohio Wesleyan University, with majors in Sociology and Philosophy.

-Reasons for Interest-

Many reasons for why I'm interested in a position with the Public Art and Cultural Commission can be found in the Goals section of the Public Art Master Plan: I want to help make Asheville a work of art and increase its distinction as a world-class destination spot for beauty. I believe that public art plays a crucial role in achieving that goal, and facilitating a diverse choir of artistic voices to speak through the city is a role I would feel honored to have a part in. I have made a life out of creating art and working with artists, I believe I have a host of relevant experience that could help further the goals mentioned in the Master Plan, and I'm looking for a new challenge and outlet for the promotion of art in Asheville.

Thank you for taking the time to read my application and resume. I look forward to hearing from you.

Re: Public Art & Cultural Commission application

To Stephanie Monson Dahl and distinguished Public Art and Cultural Commission members,

I am writing this letter to accompany my application to the Public Art & Cultural Commission and to express my keen interest in joining the commission at this time when the importance of addressing issues of diversity, inclusion and equity through the realm of public art is so crucial to the healing, vitality and well being of communities around the world. The vital role that public art plays in expressing and defining community values also seems especially important at this point in time.

As an Asheville native and long term resident I have always dreamed of finding the right opportunity to contribute to creating a more inclusive and diverse cultural environment in our community and I believe that my personal perspectives, my education, and my connection to the arts through my professional and personal experiences will make me a valuable asset to the commission. I believe that art throughout history has played an important role in the communication of ideas and addressing societal/cultural issues and that this is a great time for Asheville to be a thought leader for public art.

I recently attended (via zoom) the February and March Leadership Asheville "Equity in Creative Placemaking" Buzz Breakfasts which I found highly informative and inspiring. I have reviewed the December 2020 Public Art & Cultural Commission meeting on YouTube and have also read through the Commissions 2020 Annual Report. I am very impressed with the current members of the commission and with the ongoing, and upcoming projects that the commission will be involved with. Among the 2021 Strategic Priorities the work on revising and adopting a new Public Art & Cultural Masterplan looks like a great opportunity for fresh perspectives on future projects that will connect more deeply with disenfranchised sectors of our community.

I have 27 years of experience as a freelance graphic designer in Asheville and have had the great fortune to work with many performing arts organizations. I served on the board of American Advertising Federation Asheville from 2011-2013 working on Programs and Public Service projects. More recently I was a member of the Diversity & Inclusion committee of AIGA (American Institute of Graphic Arts) Asheville chapter. I have a lifelong love and appreciation of the arts in all forms. I feel blessed to live in a communty that has so many opportunities to experience the arts and I would love to contribute to making sure that these opportunities are accessible and inspiring to all!

Thank you for considering my application to the Public Art and Cultural Commission. If I can provide additional information, I would appreciate the opportunity.

Sincerely,

Leslie Shaw

ERIN HALLAGAN CLARE

Thank you for considering my application to join the Public Art and Cultural Commission. I am a fairly new resident to Asheville, having moved here from Austin last summer, and am eager to get involved in a way that gives back to the local community while championing its creative spirit both near and far. Working in the creative sector has been my life-long passion, as I am a firm believer in the arts' unique ability to connect, inspire, and provide invaluable meaning to our shared and diverse humanity. As an experienced arts manager, programmer, small business owner, and artist, I would bring over 15 years of translatable expertise to this commission seat. Professional qualifications include: - Board experience with arts and cultural organizations such as the Austin Film Festival and Austin Emerging Arts Leaders, the latter being an entirely board-run operation dedicated to identifying and cultivating the next generation of arts leaders by developing inclusive systems for creative and professional growth. - Arts management and programming background from my time as Creative Director for the Austin Film Festival where I oversaw the facilitation of 200+ panels and films, as well as spearheading new creative programs and initiatives, community partnerships, and year round events. The annual Festival catered to over 30,000 registrants and contributed millions to the local economy. - Small business and entrepreneurial insight, cultivated from acting as Founder and Artistic Director of Story Bar (fueled by community partnerships and co-programming efforts); and working as a creativity coach and facilitator within my own private practice. - Production and distribution acumen from 5 years as Associate Producer for the nationally distributed multi-media project, On Story. - Vast repertoire of community work, including speaking at various festivals and events, serving on numerous creative committees and art juries, and regularly volunteering with over a dozen cultural institutions. - Extensive grant writing experience, ranging from the city and state level, to prominent national foundations and institutions such as the National Endowment for the Arts, as well as years of providing freelance copywriting and copyediting services. My education and training umbrellas a range of degrees and certifications, including: - A BA from Temple University, where I pursued an interdisciplinary degree in film and theatre - Creativity coaching certifications from Kaizen-Muse Creative Coaching, as well as instruction from Dr. Eric Maisel as part of the Creativity Coach Association's advanced creative coach training - Enneagram certifications from both Integrative Enneagram and the Narrative Enneagram - Wellness certifications, including 475 hours logged with the Yoga Alliance, encompassing trainings in Vinyasa, Yin + Restorative Yoga, and Ayurveda I have attached a cover letter and resume, and am readily available should you have any other questions. Thank you in advance for your time and consideration. Erin Hallagan Clare

April 5, 2021

Dear Chairperson Cornell and Members of the Public Art and Cultural Commission,

It is with great enthusiasm I am writing to express my interest in being considered for the vacant seat on the Public Art and Cultural Commission.

As a fairly new resident to the City of Asheville, I am eager to get involved on a local level and give my time to a community that, already, has been so welcoming. With over 15 years spent in arts programming and management, I am confident I can translate my experience to meet the needs, goals, and mission of the Commission.

While I do not yet possess a seasoned knowledge of the cultural inner-workings and art advocates of Asheville, I have other valuable skills to bring to the table, perhaps the most noteworthy being a fresh, unbiased outlook on ways to further champion this city as an unparalleled "arts destination." Furthermore, I have served on a number of non-profit arts boards, juries, and committees, and feel intimately familiar with the cadence, subjectivity, and responsibility that inhabit these roles.

Prior to moving to North Carolina, I spent the last decade deeply immersed in the Austin arts and culture scene. For five years, I served as Creative Director of the Austin Film Festival and Writers Conference, as well as their official grants and copywriter, and still am an active Board Member. I left my Director post to start my own arts organization, Story Bar, a multi-disciplinary arts initiative featuring storytelling and the exploration of the human condition through community-driven programming. In 2019, I launched Story Bar's sister project, Inward & Artward, offering one-on-one creativity coaching, with a focus on mindfulness and personal narrative. And in margins of this work, I have embraced the role of Artist myself, through storytelling, writing, and poetry.

I feel my background in the arts as a manager, programmer, entrepreneur, and artist offers a unique 360 degree purview, useful in comprehending the nuanced layers that go into orchestrating meaningful community impact.

Art and culture are synonymous with the City of Asheville, and are largely why I now call this place home. I would be honored to join the esteemed members of your Commission in the quest to continue advancing its mission to facilitate public art, engage the creative sector and cultural tourism, and build upon past successes to further strengthen public and cultural arts implementation.

I have attached my resume, which further details my background in the arts and community advocacy. While I have not had the opportunity to attend a commission meeting in person, I watched the December meeting on YouTube, as well as reviewing the last two years' Annual Reports and PACC's Master Plan (circa 2001).

Thank you in advance for your time and consideration, as well for the work you do for our community.

Sincerely,

Erin Hallagan Clare

As a curator I have worked with artists to bring outdoor public art to Asheville, including Henry Richardson's "Reflections on Unity" to the Asheville Art Museum's front plaza - directly across from Pack Square Park - in 2019. (The artist is no relation to myself.) His sculpture is part of the exhibition "Many Become One" at the Museum, about bringing people, traditions, and compositions of art together. It has also become a very popular sculpture with residents and tourists! I am interested in design and sculpture and how they impact people's daily lives. My BA degree is from Columbia University in New York City, in the History and Theory of Architecture. My MPhil degree is from Glasgow University in Scotland, in Design and Decorative Arts History. I have been Associate Curator at the Asheville Art Museum since July 2020 and before that was Assistant Curator, starting in June 2018. Before moving to Asheville, I was Assistant Curator at The Wolfsonian in Miami Beach, FL. I am already a part of the arts community in Asheville in my association with the Museum, but would like to become more active in this city's Public Art Program. Asheville is an art-centric city and that is one of the reasons my family and I moved here. It would be a privilege to serve on the Public Art Commission and help continue that legacy as the city moves forward.
